2021 ANNUAL REPORT

A LETTER FROM OUR CEO

PATRICK W. GANDY, JR., CPA
CEO, Ochsner Lafayette General

“Together, we have made Ochsner Lafayette General a desired destination for exceptional healthcare for more than a hundred years.”

Following a year of loss, learning and unpredictability, Ochsner Lafayette General was called to adapt to even greater demands in 2021. Through pandemic surges, community vaccinations and support for our hurricane ravaged neighbors, we made resilience a part of our practice.

From specialty centers to urgent cares, our teams shouldered the weight of expectation and remained focused on our people and our services. We championed better efficiencies, tackled new processes and invested in newer strategies and technologies to deliver better care to our patients and meet them where they are. While confronting the unprecedented, we persisted. We persevered. We invested in Acadiana by expanding healthcare access, enhancing patient-centered technology and boosting workforce opportunities.

Our vision has remained a vital part of our movement forward. Each day, our providers, nursing teams and support staff work to inspire healthier lives and stronger communities – raising the bar for improved health and wellness for our region. In our commitment to keeping patients first, we have made our resilience a part of our treatment. Together, we provide our patients with the essentials necessary to achieve their best health.

As we move toward less turbulent times, we must remember to keep our resilience within reach because we have learned that it will guide us and keep us poised to tackle our next big challenges. The efforts we have made through the unpredictability of the last year have formed us into cultivators of innovation and purveyors of hope. Building upon our skills and resources, we have found new ways to lift our healthcare system into a brighter 2022 and beyond.

Despite our adversities over the last couple of years, Ochsner Lafayette General has remained a champion for excellence in our work and the care we provide. Our facilities have been recognized as some of the top healthcare providers in the nation.

Together, we have made Ochsner Lafayette General a desired destination for exceptional healthcare for more than a hundred years. I know that our successors, when faced with their own unfamiliar challenges, will look back on this time in history and pledge to take up the same resilience we have shown. I am proud to share in the culture and the strength of Ochsner Lafayette General and am blessed to consider myself a part of this extraordinary team. No doubt, we will face challenges together in the coming years. May they shape us, guide us and keep us resilient.
